

Hiram College's Center for Literature, Medicine and Biomedical Humanities
Presents

“The Space Between You and Me”

This installation invites viewers to enter and experience interviews with youth who have Tourette Syndrome. Their deep understanding of their disorders — not as an illness to battle but as a part of the continuum of nature — is expressed symbolically. The interviews are set against a rich spectrum of movements found in nature as well as original interpretive dance based on Tourette motions.

Creators Agnieszka Matejko and Bob Lysey will be available for discussion throughout the installation.

October 25 - 29, 2010
Former Miller Dining Hall
Daily 12 p.m. - 7 p.m.

20th
Anniversary

 Center for Literature, Medicine &
Biomedical Humanities