* This chart refers only to students having completed all requirements for licensure. Hiram College only authorizes licenses in the state of Ohio.
Students who are graduating major-only have not completed all requirements for licensure and therefore are not eligible.
Students graduating eligible for the Ohio Interim License are not authorized by Hiram College, and therefore this chart does not apply.

 Grade bands may differ slightly in other states

 In some cases other states may issue conditional certification that allow Ohio-licensed graduates to begin teaching in the state immediately, and in order for the graduate to become fully certified, the graduate will need to complete a state-specific course or testing while they teach.

* Reciprocity is not available in American Samoa. Teaching licenses there are restricted to teachers in American Samoa classrooms and employed by the American Samoa Department of Education.
- Colorado requires specific testing for their Special Education Generalist (ages 5-21) certificate.
- Delaware requires a content area certification as well as intervention specialist
- In Georgia, an educator with less than 3 years of out-of-state teaching experience will need to complete the Georgia Educator Ethics assessment upfront.
- Maine has a licensure pathway for out-of-state applicants to address areas of identified staffing shortages, which currently do not include Social Studies at the Middle or Secondary level.
- Montana requires completion and verification of the free course An Introduction to Indian Education for All in Montana.
- New York requires the completion of several workshops before a certificate can be issued.
- Certain states (AK, TN) have reading instruction standards specifically focused on early childhood and special education that must be completed in order to be eligible to teach in those areas there.
- Wyoming requires successful completion of U.S. and Wyoming Constitution examinations for licensure. Students who have taken HIram's HIST 14000: US HISTORY TO 1865 may be able to waive the Wyoming U.S. Constitution exam.
